Highlights

Bungee Jumping is the most exciting and longest free-fall in the WORLD!

Beyond expeditions to awe-inspiring Himalayan, Nepal is also famous for myriad layers of one-day outing excursions. Traveling either within Kathmandu at UNESCO World Heritage Sites or visiting beyond Kathmandu, the one-day excursions are packed with many traveling itineraries.

Therefore, Bungee Jumping in Nepal thrills the intrepid traveler to its ultimate rush. The first bungee jumping in Nepal site is located 160 meters over the wild Bhote Kosi River which is situated close to the Nepal-Tibet border, it is a three-hour bus ride from Kathmandu.

This remarkable 500ft (160m) drop into the Bhoti Kosi River Gorge is the longest free-fall in the world and is also the most spectacular on the entire planet. The jump takes place on a 166m wide steel suspension bridge over the Bhotekoshi River Gorge. The bridge is Swiss-designed and considered to be safe for dives.

We invite the bold and passionate to join the Alpine Club of Himalaya's one-day trip to The Ultimate Rush to dive into the gorge of the Bhoti Koshi River. The bungee jumping in Nepal experience in the fall will be beatable unbeatable and remain spectacular.
